“Portraits in Gray – Gray Wolf” Original Oil by Larry Zach. Following Bison, Moose, Bobcat and Grizzly, this Gray Wolf painting is the latest release in the series ‘Portraits in Gray’. “I find wolves fascinating. At some point in time between 14,000 and 29,000 years ago humans turned a ferocious predator into ‘man’s best friend’. In this painting where I captured an alpha female staring intently at something just out of our view, I have conflicting reactions. Do I jump back in fear at being so close to a large predator or scratch her behind her ear because she looks so much like man’s best friend? I hope you enjoy this original oil painting, “Portraits in Gray – Gray Wolf”.” Please visit Zach Wildlife Art here at the show or at www.zachwildlifeart.com.

Hunter and Trophy Original Oil Painting commission by Larry Zach "I often get requests to do an original painting. Some of these requests include creating an original painting of a hunter and his or her trophy. In the past I have routinely turned these down, but now, in semi-retirement, I am for the first time, offering the opportunity for just that, an original painting of a hunter/huntress and their hard earned trophy." The painting design will be a collaboration between the artist, Larry Zach, and the winning bidder. The better the quality of the reference photos the better the results possible. The original image size will be 18" x 24". Framing will be included. The original painting shown here is my grandson, Beckett, then age 8 years old, with his first gobbler taken by crossbow in April of 2022. It was a hunt neither of us will ever forget, especially with an original piece of art to commemorate the event. I anticipate that the painting will pass down through the generations. This is your opportunity to own an original piece of art created especially for you and to pass on to your future generations. Please visit Zach Wildlife Art at www.zachwildlifeart.com.
